ELECTIONS FOR THE PROVINCIAL COUNCILS OF THE LPC

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON THE LPA AND LPC

Over the past two weeks, the LSSA has received numerous calls and e-mails from attorneys with questions on the Legal Practice Act, 2014 and the Legal Practice Council.

View answers to these frequently asked questions here.

The National Forum has provided a guidance memorandum to candidate attorneys currently serving under articles of clerkship and who seek guidance on what their position will be once s 120(4) of the Legal Practice Act has come into force.

Should you have questions requiring responses, these can be submitted to one of the regional offices of the LPC at the above contact details. Alternatively, send your questions to the LSSA at LSSA@LSSA.org.za and we will endeavour to answer them or refer you to the LPC.

LSSA ADOPTS AMENDED CONSTITUTION; REMAINS TO SERVE ATTORNEYS

On 29 October 2018, the Council of the LSSA adopted the first amendment to its constitution, replacing the four provincial law societies with nine provincial attorneys' associations as its constituent members. The Black Lawyers Association and National Association of Democratic Lawyers remain constituent members of the LSSA.

In terms of its amended constitution, the Law Society will continue in its current form to convert its functions to a membership organisation with full implementation over the next three years. Its objectives can be found in its constitution, but generally, the LSSA will speak for its members (attorneys) nationally; propose amendments to legislation; liaise with the State in all matters relating to the profession; propose, contribute and influence the development and implementation of policy relating to the profession; co-ordinate and organise practical vocational training for candidate legal practitioners and post-professional development training and other training for legal and other practitioners; represent and assist members (attorneys) in disciplinary matters before the LPC and with alternative dispute resolution; and to cooperate with and support the LPC in the public interest.
